

JAPANESE JOURNAL OF RELIGIOUS STUDIES

VOLUME 45, NO. 2

2018

ARTICLES

- 217 Editors' Introduction
Modest Materialities: The Social Lives and Afterlives of Sacred Things in Japan
Caroline HIRASAWA and Benedetta LOMI
- 227 Ox Bezoars and the Materiality of Heian-period Therapeutics
Benedetta LOMI
- 269 Rice, Relics, and Jewels
The Network and Agency of Rice Grains
in Medieval Japanese Esoteric Buddhism
Steven TRENSON
- 309 Mantras and Materialities
Saidaiji Order Kōmyō Shingon Practices
David QUINTER
- 341 The Materiality of a Promise
Interworldly Contracts in Medieval Buddhist Promotional Campaign Imagery
Caroline HIRASAWA
- 391 Musical Toys Offered to Gods at Miho Shrine
Instruments for Renewing Ritual Communication
OUCHI Fumi
- 423 Things that Believe
Talismans, Amulets, Dolls, and How to Get Rid of Them
Fabio R. GYGI

REVIEWS

- 453 Sherry D. Fowler, Accounts and Images of Six Kannon in Japan
SAKA Chihiro
- 458 G. Clinton Godart, *Darwin, Dharma, and the Divine:
Evolutionary Theory and Religion in Modern Japan* Kin CHEUNG
- 460 Pamela D. Winfield and Steven Heine, eds.,
Zen and Material Culture Zuzana KUBOVČÁKOVÁ
- 465 Contributors

CONTRIBUTORS

Kin CHEUNG is Assistant Professor of Asian Religions in the Department of Global Religions at Moravian College. He is interested in various aspects of contemporary Buddhism and has written on Buddhist meditation and healing, practical implications of Buddhist ethics, and Buddhist institutions' involvement in China's stock market. He is working on a case study of a contemporary Chinese-American religious healer.

Fabio R. GYGI is Lecturer in Anthropology with reference to Japan at SOAS University of London. He specializes in material culture and medical anthropology. His recent publications include "The Metamorphosis of Excess: 'Rubbish Houses' and the Imagined Trajectory of Things in Post-Bubble Japan," in Consuming Life in Post-Bubble Japan: A Transdisciplinary Perspective (Amsterdam University Press, 2018). He is currently working on a book manuscript on hoarding in Japan.

Caroline HIRASAWA is Associate Professor of Japanese Art History at Waseda University. Her publications include Hell-bent for Heaven in Tateyama mandara: Painting and Religious Practice at a Japanese Mountain (Brill, 2013), and "Hikari no kyūsai: Kōmyō shingon kudoku ekotoba (emaki) no seiritsu to sono hyōgen o megutte" 光の救済—「光明真言功德絵詞(絵巻)」の成立とその表現をめぐる, in Kaiga, imēji no kairō 絵画・イメージの回廊, vol. 2 of Nihon bungaku no tenbō o hiraku 日本文学の展望を拓く (Kasama Shoin, 2017).

Zuzana KUBOVČÁKOVÁ teaches Japanese writing and Japanese religions at Masaryk University in Brno, Czech Republic. She has spent the past year as a Visiting Professor at the University of Vienna, Austria, and Nanzan University, Japan. Her research interest lies in Japanese Zen Buddhism, particularly in the teaching of the Sōtō school. In the past three years, she has spent several practice periods at Upāya Zen Center and San Francisco Zen Center and worked with Kazuaki Tanahashi on translations of Dōgen's Shōbōgenzō.

Benedetta LOMI is Lecturer in East Asian Religions in the Department of Religion and Theology at the University of Bristol. Her publications include "The Ox-Bezoar Empowerment for Fertility and Safe Childbirth: Selected Readings from the Shingon Ritual Collections," in Buddhism and Medicine:

An Anthology of Premodern Sources (Columbia University Press, 2017), and “Dharanis, Talismans, and Straw-dolls: Ritual Choreographies and Healing Strategies of the Rokujikyōhō in Medieval Japan” (JJRS 41, 2014). She is currently conducting research on animal-based substances used in esoteric Buddhist rituals.

OUCHI Fumi is Professor of Musicology in the Faculty of Education at Miyagi Gakuin Women’s University. Her interests oscillate between the study of religions and musicology, focusing on the ritual function of voice, sounds, music, and musical things. Her publications include “The Lotus Repentance Liturgy of Shugendō: Identification from Vocal Arts” (Cahiers d’Extrême-Asie 18, 2009), as well as on the performative power of various types of Buddhist vocal music and liturgical chanting that developed in medieval Japan, contextualizing their doctrinal background. Her book Bukkyō no koe no waza: Satori noshintaisei 『仏教の声の技—悟りの身体性』 (Hōzōkan, 2016) was awarded the Tanabe Hisao Award in 2017.

DAVID QUINTER is Associate Professor of East Asian Religions in the Program in Religious Studies and the Department of East Asian Studies at the University of Alberta. His current research focuses on the intersections of textual, visual, material, and ritual culture in medieval Nara Buddhism and in devotional cults across Asian cultures. His recent publications include “Materializing and Performing Prajñā: Jōkei’s Mañjuśrī Faith and the Kasagidera Restoration” (JJRS 43, 2016), and From Outcasts to Emperors: Shingon Ritsu and the Mañjuśrī Cult in Medieval Japan (Brill, 2015).

SAKA Chihiro is a PhD student in the Department of Japanese Studies, Graduate University for Advanced Studies (Sōkendai). Her research examines religious as well as secular texts together with visual imagery as well as rituals and practices connected with Datsueba worship, tracing the development and transformation of her multifaceted character, appearance, and roles from the eleventh century to the nineteenth century.

STEVEN TRENSON is Associate Professor in the Faculty of International Research and Education at Waseda University. His research focuses on the history of esoteric Buddhism in premodern Japan. He has published a number of articles on dragon cults and rain-making rites, as well as the monograph Kiu, hōju, ryū: Chūsei Shingon mikkyō no shinsō 祈雨・宝珠・龍—中世真言密教の深層 (Kyoto Daigaku Gakujutsu Shuppankai, 2016).